Datapages/Search and Discovery Limited Permission / Limited Serial Rights Transfer
Search and Discovery is an online journal of upstream literature published by AAPG Datapages (Datapages, Inc., which is owned by The American Association of Petroleum Geologists).

When you submitted your abstract to the meeting organizers at the referenced meeting you automatically gave them copyright and permission to publish that document in meeting and program listings. Those short abstracts will be posted on Search and Discovery under Abstracts of Meetings.

To have your presentation online at Search and Discovery we must ask your expressed, written permission to publish your text and images for this and subsequent purposes. We are not asking for your copyright. That will remain in your name, or in your Company's name.

1. Permission is granted to AAPG Datapages to publish and make copies of my presentation from the above listed convention or special event online at Search and Discovery and in any other and/or successor AAPG Datapages managed online publication databases.
2. By giving my permission I declare I have permission to publish any material within my presentation that was previously published by another individual or company and I am transferring that permission to the extent possible so my paper can be published on Search and Discovery.
3. I am not expecting compensation from AAPG Datapages for the publication of my presentation or materials.
4. As Author(s), I (we) retain copyright of all my (our) materials and keep the right to publish future works with proper citation to any materials first published on Search and Discovery. I (we) do not give permission for AAPG Datapages to grant any of these rights to others. Further, I (we) are free to make copies of our own paper for other purposes.

Your presentation will be a welcome addition to the Search and Discovery database and become a permanent part of the AAPG Datapages/Search and Discovery.

ACCEPTANCE: I agree to these terms and allow AAPG to publish my presentation.
